JUVENILE COURT OVERVIEW

This report is the fifty-third in a series of juvenile court statistics and the twentieth published under the direction of the Division of Youth Services (DYS) and the Department of Social Services Research and Evaluation Unit as mandated by section 219.016.(3), RSMo 1994. This report presents the summary statistics of Missouri's juvenile court system for calendar year 1997.

The numbers represented in this report are not individual children, but separately disposed court referrals. A referral is defined as "any action involving a juvenile which results in a determination, finding, or outcome and a written record maintained in the juvenile's name." A disposed referral is one which has resulted in a "finding" or "outcome". Examples of findings and outcomes include:

Court Adjudication Informal Adjustment
Transfer to other Court Rejection of Referral

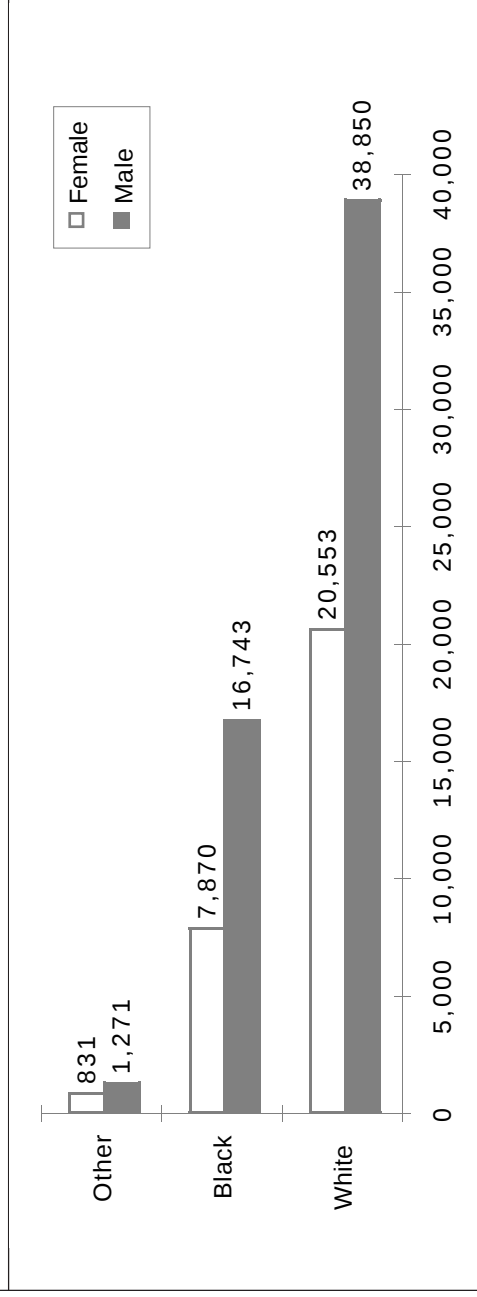

Throughout this report, the term "referral" means "disposed referral".

Table 1. Annual Referrals
YEAR	REFERRALS
1993	72,748
1994	77,460
1995	80,175
1996	84,131
1997	86,118

In calendar year 1997, 86,118 referrals were disposed of by the 45 juvenile court circuits in Missouri. This number marks a 18.4 percent increase over the five year period since 1993, and a two percent increase over 1996.

Because of problems with individual identification systems for juveniles, the number of children represented by these referrals cannot be accurately reported. Missouri does not use a unique, individual identifier and, therefore, an exact statewide count of individual children is not available.

Chart 1. Total Referrals by Race and Gender

Race and Gender Comparisons

Chart 1 shows the gender and race breakdown of all referrals in 1997. Males made up the larger portion of each racial grouping, accounting for 66 percent of all referrals, while females made up 34 percent. White youth comprised 69 percent of the referral population, while black youth comprised 29 percent. Just under three percent of the referral population were other races.

Referral Types

Referrals to Missouri's juvenile courts break down into four categories:

- Law Violations: Acts which would be a violation of the Missouri Criminal Code if they were committed by an adult.
- Status Violations: Acts which are violations only if committed by a juvenile. These include such activities as truancy and running away from home.
- Abuse, Neglect, Custody: (A/N/C) Reports of Missouri children who were victims of abuse or neglect, and children involved in custody disputes, transfers, or terminations of parental rights.
- Administrative: Reported referrals of violations of court orders. Prior to 1992, this category also included permanency planning reviews and other miscellaneous referrals such as probation violations.

Table 2. Juvenile Court Referral Statistics: 1988-1997

* The definitions for reporting in the Administrative category were changed in 1992.

 The definitions for reporting in the Status Offense category changed in 1994 to include curfew violations.

Table 2 shows the breakdown of all referrals into the four referral categories over the past ten years. Administrative referrals decreased from 1996, while abuse, neglect and custody referrals increased slightly by 2 percent. Law violation referrals comprised 57 percent of all referrals statewide in 1997 and increased seven percent from 1996. Status offenses decreased to 22,600, just under a six percent decrease from 1996.

Referral Trends

Chart 2 illustrates the change in total referrals, by category, over the past ten years. While an increase has been the general trend for each, status violations show the most dramatic increase, partly due to reporting definition changes. From 1988 to 1997, law violation referrals increased 35 percent, while abuse, neglect and custody referrals increased 16 percent.

Referral Sources

Referrals to the Missouri juvenile court system can come from many sources. In 1997, 68 percent of all referrals were initiated by law enforcement. As in the past, more than half of the abuse, neglect and custody referrals were initiated by the Department of Social Services' Division of Family Services (DFS). Status offense referrals were more likely to be made by schools or municipal police. The juvenile courts and parents were also the initiators of large numbers of referrals. Table 3 shows the source of all referrals to the Missouri juvenile courts.

Most Common Major Allegations

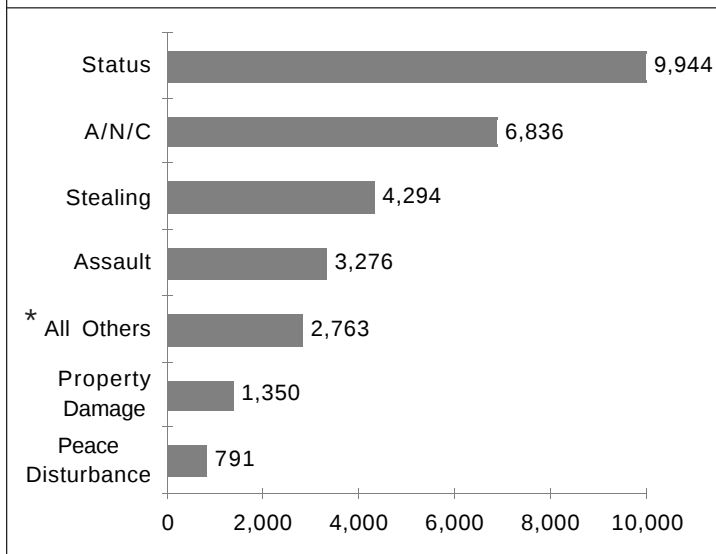

Chart 3. Most Common Major Allegation: Male

Charts 3 and 4 illustrate the most common major allegations, by gender, for 1997 referrals. Although status violation is the top category with the largest individual number of referrals, males are more likely to be referred for a law violation than any other referral. Stealing, assault, and property damage are in the top five reasons for referral.

Females are most likely to be referred to the juvenile courts for a status violation. Abuse, neglect and custody referrals is the next major category. The number of female referrals for law violations of any kind is much lower both as a percentage of total female referrals and as compared to male referrals.

Chart 4. Most Common Major Allegation: Female

* "All Others" includes other law violations not mentioned on this graph as well as administrative violations.

Disposition of Referrals

After a youth has been referred to a juvenile court, a formal judgement or informal decision is made about how to handle that case. The possible determinations or outcomes fall into two categories:

1) those that are handled formally with a petition to the court, and 2) those that are informally adjusted outside of the court.

The formal dispositions that can occur are:

True, Out-of-Home:	The allegation is found to be true and the youth is placed out of his or her home. The placement may be with the Division of Youth Services, a foster home, a relative, or some other agency.
True, In-Home:	The allegation is found to be true and the youth receives services in his or her own home.
True, No Services:	The allegation is found to be true, but the youth receives no services.
Not True:	The allegation is found to be not true.
Motion to Dismiss:	The court sustains a motion to dismiss and the case is closed.
Dismiss for Certification:	The court sustains a motion to dismiss and the case is transferred to an adult criminal court to be processed under the criminal code.

The informal dispositions that can occur are:

Adjust without Supervision:	No more than one face-to-face contact is made between court personnel and the juvenile. This usually results in the giving of advice, counsel or a verbal warning.
Adjust with Supervision:	Either a verbal or written agreement is made to put the juvenile under court supervision. This usually includes some sort of restitution or community service.
Adjust - No Action:	No action is taken by the juvenile officer other than the collection of information.
Transfer to Other Juvenile Court:	Jurisdiction over the juvenile is transferred to another juvenile court for disposition.
Transfer to Other Agency:	The youth's case (records, files, etc.) is turned over to another agency for disposition.
Referral Rejected:	No reason is found to sustain the referral.

The dispositions of 1997 referrals to Missouri juvenile courts are shown in Chart 5. Over three-quarters (78 percent) of all referrals were disposed of informally.

Charts 6 and 7 show the outcomes of formally and informally disposed referrals. "W/O Supervision" was the finding for the largest number of referrals.

Formal dispositions accounted for only 22 percent of all referral outcomes, but some important results can be noted from them. While the percentage of all formal referrals remained about the same from 1996 to 1997, the referrals found true and placed out-of-home rose by 11 percent. Also, the number of referrals certified to adult court declined by 26 percent.

Chart 5. Disposition of Referrals

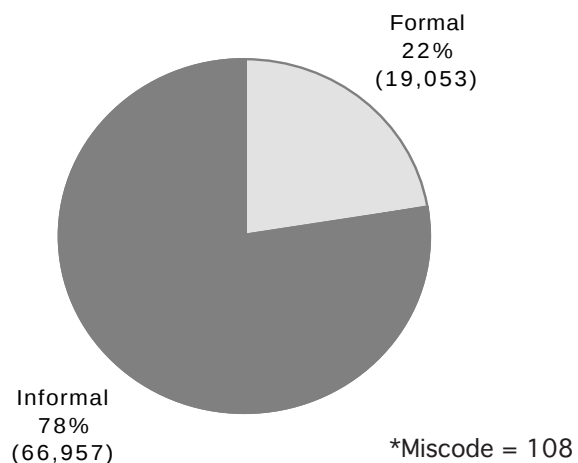

Chart 6. Outcomes of Formally Disposed Referrals

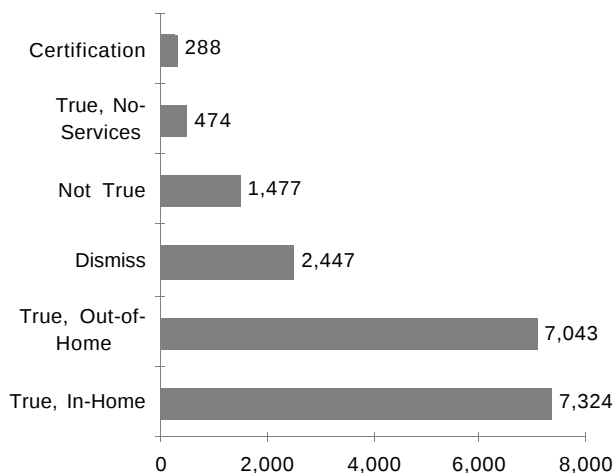

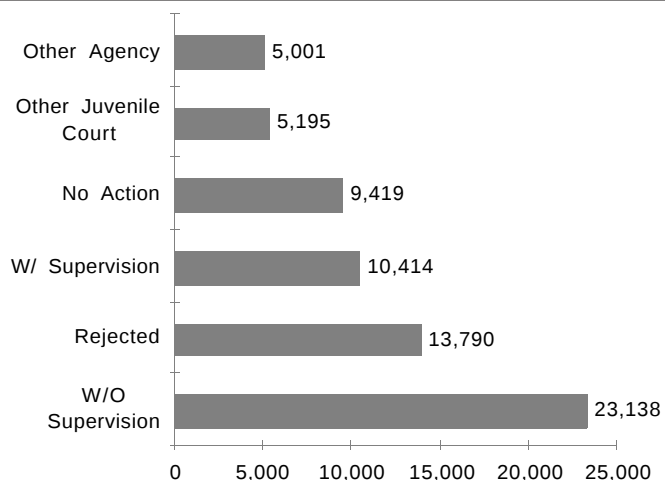

Chart 7. Outcomes of Informally Disposed Referrals

A total of 7,043 referrals were placed out-of-home in 1997. Abuse, neglect and custody referrals made up 54 percent of all out-of-home placements. Law violation referrals accounted for 33 percent and status violation referrals made up 13 percent.

Forty-eight percent of all out-of-home placements were made to DFS. Another 21 percent of these placements were made to DYS. Frequently, youths were placed with relatives, court residential care, or some other private agency. Chart 8 shows the distribution of out-of-home placements.

In-home services were provided for 13,967 referrals in 1997. However, because more than one provider can be listed for each referral, there were 19,977 provider referrals. In-home services can be ordered by the court or provided informally by court personnel. Eighty-five percent of in-home service cases were supervised by juvenile court personnel. (Chart 9)

Certifications to Adult Court

In 1997, there were 288 referrals dismissed from the juvenile courts to allow certification to adult court. Table 4 shows the number of dismissed referrals by age and race.

Pre-Hearing Placements

At the time of a referral, a juvenile may be detained awaiting a determination. Two types of facilities are used for detention: secure and non-secure. During 1997, 11,788 referrals were detained prior to hearing. Males made up almost 65 percent of all placements, and males were more likely to be detained in a secure facility. A breakdown of all detainees by category and gender is provided in Table 5.

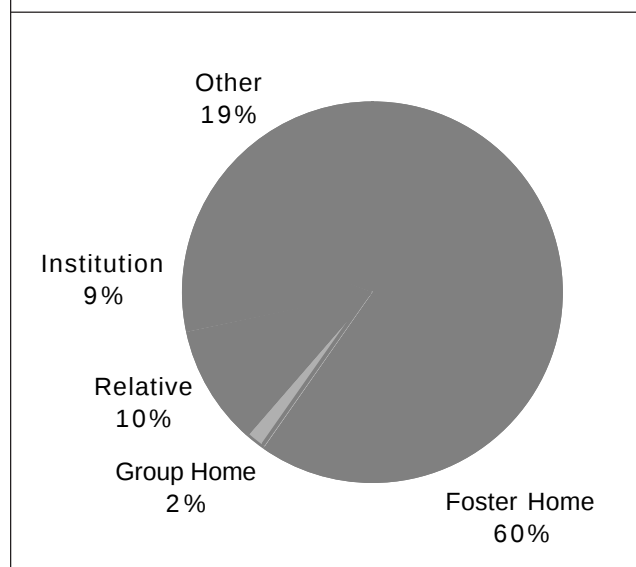

Table 5. Pre-Hearing Placements by Referral Type and Gender

	Secure		Non-Secure		Both
	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female

Administrative	312	75	68	23	3	0
Total	4,686	1,363	2,789	2,769	117	64

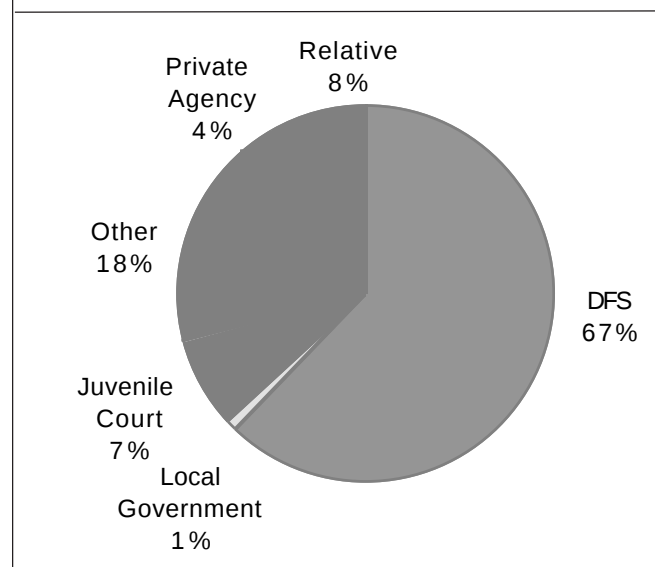

There are several types of facilities in which non-secure placements may be held: Foster Home, Group Home, Group Foster Home, Institution or Facility, Relative, and Other. In 1997, the largest portion of these placements were made to a foster home (60 percent). Detention with a relative was added as a new category on the 1992 juvenile information form. This category accounted for 10 percent of non-secure placements in 1997. Chart 10 details the percentage of placements into the different categories.

Chart 11 shows the operators of the non-secure facilities. The operators of a facility can be: DFS, the Department of Mental Health (DMH), Juvenile Court, Local Government, Private Agency, Relative, or Other. DFS was the operator of the facilities in 67 percent of the disposed referrals that had a non-secure placement.

LAW VIOLATION REFERRALS

Law violation referrals made up 57 percent of all referrals to the juvenile court system in 1997. Law violations represent a single delinquent act even though several offenses may have been committed at the same time by the child referred. The most serious violation that resulted in a final disposition is recorded as the major allegation for the referral.

Law Violation Outcomes

Chart 12 depicts the outcomes of all law referrals. Informal adjustment without supervision accounted for 27 percent of all outcomes. Informal adjustments accounted for 81 percent of law violation referrals.

Prior Violations

The average number of prior law violations per referral varies greatly among different violations. Referrals for Flight/Escapes, Obstruct Judicial Process, and Robbery are shown to have some of the highest incidences of prior allegations. (Table 6)

Age Distribution of Law Violators

Nearly half (24,537) of all the law violation referrals in 1997 were 15 and 16 year old youths. This age group was most likely to be referred for stealing, assault, or property damage. This same pattern can be seen among each of the age groups. (Table 7)

STATUS OFFENSE REFERRALS

Status Offense Outcomes

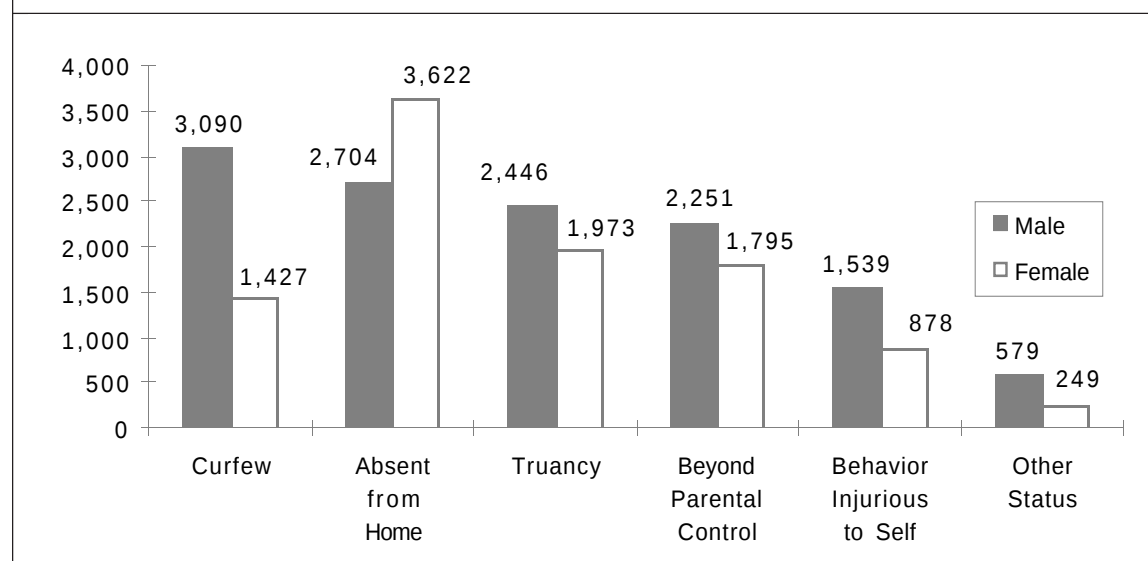

More status offense referrals were handled informally than formally. The number of rejected referrals decreased from 1996 by 45 percent, while the number that were adjusted informally without supervision increased. Aside from these, the proportion of each of the outcomes remained about the same as in 1996. (Chart 13)

Chart 13. Outcomes of Status Offense Referrals

Status offenses are those offenses that are not considered violations if committed by adults. In 1997, status offenses accounted for 26 percent of all referrals. The category with the largest number of referrals was "Absent from Home" which had 6,326. This was also the only category in which the number of female referrals outnumbered male referrals. (Chart 14)

Chart 14. Status Offense Referrals by Gender

Status Offense Placements

Pre-hearing placements for status referrals are somewhat rare. Only six and one quarter percent of 1997 status referrals were detained prior to hearing. Of those juveniles held, 808 (57 percent) were held in a secure facility, 545 (39 percent) were held in a non-secure facility, and 57 juveniles (4 percent) were held in both secure and non-secure facilities pending their hearing. Runaways were more likely than other status offenders to be held in a secure setting. (Table 8)

In 1997, 933 juveniles who were referred for status offenses were placed out-of-home: Thirty-three percent of those were put under DFS care; DYS accepted another 23 percent; twenty percent were placed into juvenile court residential care; eleven percent were placed with a private agency. The rest were placed elsewhere, including with a relative, DMH, a public agency or court probation. (Table 9)

ABUSE, NEGLECT AND CUSTODY REFERRALS

The abuse, neglect and custody category encompasses a wide range of referral types. Children can be referred because of physical abuse, abandonment, or because they are involved in a custody dispute. A breakdown of all the abuse, neglect and custody referrals is listed in Table 10.

Because not all circuits and counties use unique individual identification numbers, and because two separate circuits might prosecute the same child using different IDs, a true statewide count of the number of children certified cannot accurately be found. The numbers on this table have been unduplicated to represent individual children within circuit.
